Bureau Informant 100 furnished the following information classified "Secret" and received by Bureau on 11/3/62.

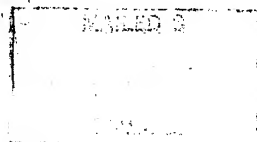

A reliable source has furnished the following information concerning Professor Martin Summerfield. Subject, a professor of fluid mechanics at Princeton University, is one of the organizers of the American Rocket Society and editor of the latter's publication. He was one of the founders of the Aerojet General Corporation of Azusa, California, and is still serving as an adviser to the company together with Von Karman and others. Subject was also one of the founder-members of the International Astronautical Federation, and is a co-worker on its scientific program. He has been very active in the organization of the 13th International Congress for Astronautics in Varna, Bulgaria, and was instrumental in the editing and publication of scientific papers read at this convention. (S) (U)

According to a close acquaintance, subject has encountered a good many difficulties on account of his membership in a leftist student organization in the thirties. As a result he was not cleared for information relating to overall planning. In 1956, however, he was given partial clearance for boosters and rocket engines. (S) (U)

During the Varna Congress, subject stayed with the U. S. delegation and was not seen in the company of delegates from other countries except for short times on the occasion of official gatherings (cocktail party, et cetera). He did not appear inclined to make friends, and was very busy with organizational work. The few conversations subject is known to have had with participants were on technical or organizational

MARTIN SUMMERFIELD is the subject of Bureau file 65-58451, NKfile 65-3947 and NYfile 65-15039. There is also a reference in NY indices under the same name to a NY file 116-1679. This file is presently unavailable.

Information in NYfile 65-15039 concerning SUMMERFIELD was not included in the LHM since the NYO is not aware of the present status of that case and NK as the office of origin in that case has the complete and up-to-date information.

Established sources of the NYO have been alerted to report any contacts by the subject with Soviet nationals in the NYC area.

The following information was furnished by [redacted] during the past two months. It is being furnished for the information of the Newark Office and is not to be disseminated further.

On January 15, 1971, [REDACTED] Soviet and Western European Exchanges Staff, USDS, advised a Special Agent (SA) of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) that since [REDACTED] had already visited this country for the same purpose only a year ago, the National Academy of Sciences decided not to support this visit and no visa would be issued. In a letter dated March 15, 1971, to the National Academy of Sciences, Washington, D.C., Martin Summerfield, Professor of Aerospace Engineering, School of Engineering and Applied Sciences, Department of Aerospace and Mechanical Sciences, Guggenheim Aerospace Propulsion Laboratories, Princeton University, wrote the following: (S) (U)

"I understand that [REDACTED] has applied for a visa to re-enter the U.S.A. and for permission under the terms of the exchange agreement between the respective national science academics of the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. to come to Princeton University for a period of three to six months. I have brought this information to the attention of the authorities at Princeton University, and we have decided that we would like to support his application for a stay at Princeton. We are prepared to receive him at any time at his convenience, the sooner the better. (S) (U)

"In order to cover his expenses during his stay, Princeton University can offer him the same stipend that we normally grant to a graduate student in our Graduate School, that is, $250/month with permission to obtain board and lodging in the Graduate College at student rates. It so happens that this stipend is about the same as the sum of the personal check and the lodging bill that the U.S. National Academy paid monthly during his stay in 1969-70. The University will guarantee this for three months, at least. It is quite probable that the University will have the funds to cover his stipend for the remaining three months, if it turns out that he wants to stay that long. (S) (U)

"Our attitude towards his application to come to Princeton again is favorable because we recall that he contributed in a strong way to our research program during his previous stay. There is absolutely no question that his contributions were worth every bit of what was spent on that visit--in fact, far, far more. Your files contain, I believe, copies of my progress reports on his work here in 1969-70. When he arrives here again, we will continue with the same line of work. There is an additional document that may be pertinent to this application, a paper that we published after his departure, which contained material that he had contributed. I enclose a copy for your perusal. You will observe in (a) the abstract at the beginning, (b) the authorship and footnotes on the first page, and (c) the final section on conclusions, that his contributions were important and that we were pleased to acknowledge the partnership. For your information, the staff of the Power Branch of ONR, the sponsor of our part of the joint project reported in this paper, is also aware of the contributions that he had made and satisfied as to their value. All of this explains why we would be pleased to receive [REDACTED] again as a visiting scientist in our research laboratory. (S) (U)

"Please let me know just as soon as possible the probable date of his arrival so that I can reserve a room for him in the Graduate College. Also, I will have to make personal plans or arrange for someone to receive him. It would be advantageous for scientific reasons (although not necessary) if he could get here while [REDACTED] (S) (U)
